Hi Deb,

Well now that I have a chance to say what I want - I don't know what to say. I guess I'll start by thanking you for introducing me to Bruce. Maybe someday
I'll get to be with him again - that way we can talk about all the stuff
we never could talk about before. I can tell him how awful I feel about rotten I treated him - I hope I get that chance. It would do us both good. I think we're both grown up quite

Eldorado

Gaily bedight,
A gallant Knight
In sunshine and in shadow
Had journeyed long,
Singing a song,
In search of Eldorado.

But he grew old —
This knight so bold —
And o'er his heart a shadow
Fell, as he found
No spot of ground
That looked like Eldorado.

And, as his strength
Failed him at length,
He met a pilgrim shadow:
"Shadow," said he,
"Where can it be—
This land of Eldorado?"

"Over the mountains
Of the moon,
Down the valley of the Shadow
Ride, boldly ride,"
The shade replied,
"If you seek Eldorado!"

As each freshman enters East, he becomes a searching knight — searching for an Eldorado. Each knight has his own Eldorado — be it graduation or something higher and deeper in meaning. As each freshman grows older and becomes a sophomore and then a junior, his interests change. He may lose sight of his goal and tire in his quest. Finally as a senior, with the guidance of teachers, counselors, and other students, the searching knight again sights his goal with renewed vigor and conviction. Once again he takes up the search for his own Eldorado.

Deb,

Mr. Dwight Scheyer

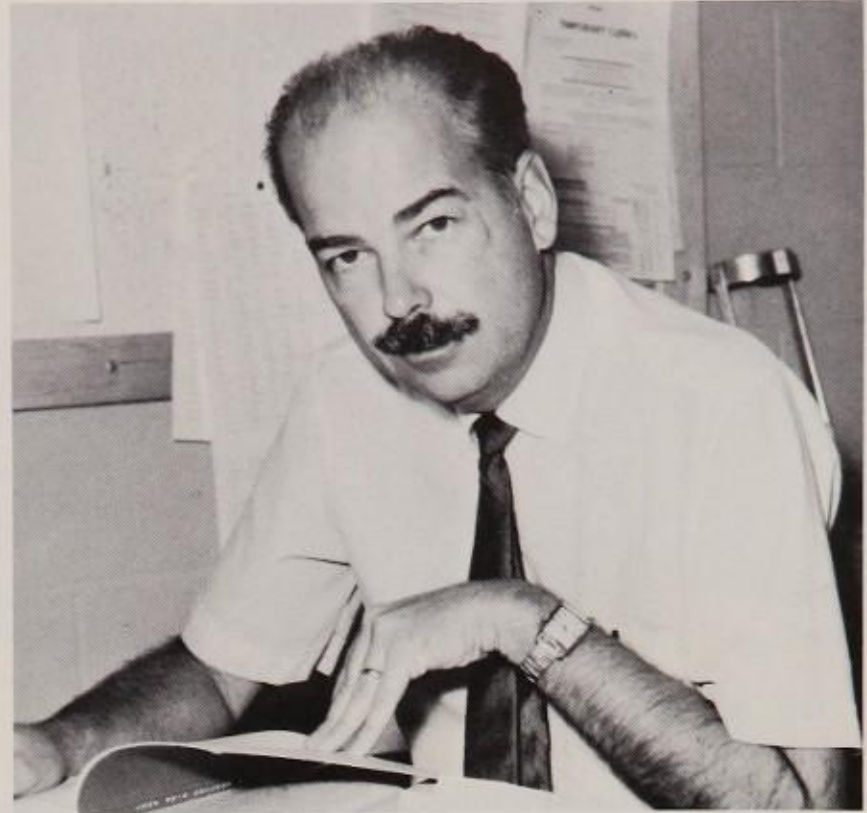

The responsibilities of Mr. Scheyer, principal, were numerous during the past year. Since he had the most authority at East High School, he was responsible for running the school curriculum smoothly and straightening out the difficulties that occasionally arose, besides being involved with the activities outside the classes.

Mr. Scheyer has been the principal of East High School since it opened in September, 1956. During these years he helped improve the educational opportunities and activities available to each student. This year he and Joel Singer, student body president, organized the student-faculty committee which developed a better relationship between students and teachers, emphasizing good citizenship and sportsmanship. Through the diligent work and earnest concern of Mr. Scheyer, the cooperation of the rest of the faculty and support of Armin Jahr, retiring Bremerton School Superintendent, East High School continued to rank high in scholastic attainments and leadership as well as in sports and other activities.

Mr. Tom Guerin

Mr. Gordon Berry

Counseling Helps

One side of the students' multi-faceted lives at East was determined by the counselors. Working diligently, our counselors helped us prepare to meet the demands of high school, college, and an adult life afterwards. They analyzed test scores and helped us decide on the most helpful classes to take for the best development of natural abilities. Frequent encouragement kept us trying, and through the insight they gave us into college and vocational possibilities, we decided which goals we would strive for in school, and later in our future lives.

Language Teachers Give Understanding

As we at East High became increasingly aware of our shrinking world and its growing problems, we began to realize the importance of communication among foreign nations. This was the goal of the East High language department. They furthered our knowledge of the people and customs of Germany, Spain, France, Russia, and Ancient Rome by means of language study and practice with tapes in the language laboratory. Russian was taught by Mr. Frank Bratonia, German by Mrs. Margaret Carlson and Mr. James Dykes, Latin by Mrs. Florence Justin, French by Miss Lillian Martin, and Spanish by Miss Peggy Stemmons. These teachers helped us to obtain an understanding of world communication problems.

A Forever Changing World of Ideas

Mr. Ted Berney

*Best wishes
W. Berney*

The door to a rewarding career in science was opened to many by the numerous science courses offered at East. Mr. William Junell and Mr. Ted Berney taught biological science. Chemistry and basic algebra were taught by Mr. William Trezise, and the Physics Department was headed by Mr. Robert Battermann. Mr. Philip Pearson, pictured on page seventeen, taught classes of physical science. Because of constant changes in modern science, it is often difficult to keep up with new techniques; but these science teachers here at East successfully related new ideas to their students through the courses they instructed.

A Changing World

It is the function of history to allow the past to make the present world intelligible. Interpretation of this data was the province of each teacher who chose those tools of instruction which let the past speak for itself. The supreme purpose of their history instruction was to create rich, many-sided personalities equipped with practical knowledge and ambitions. Inspired by past ideals, students were able to see clearer the ways to fulfill their missions in an ever-changing society.

Equations Unlimited

Thrust into a formidable whirlwind of equations, figures, and formulas, mathematics students met one challenge after another in their search for cube roots, similar triangles, and angle functions. Deep concentration and many late study hours were mandatory in order to digest the newest concepts and theories so skillfully presented by five teachers. Heading the Mathematics Department, Miss Miriam Hart taught algebra and trigonometry. Other teachers in the department were Mr. Russell Daniel, who taught algebra; Mrs. Judith Huson, who taught algebra and business math; and Mr. Philip Pearson, who taught geometry and algebra.

Exploring Our Language

Because English is a basic tool needed in all other branches of learning, a firm basic background of English essentials is absolutely mandatory for the education seeker. The ultimate aim of the English Department was to give students this strong foundation in the fundamentals of the language, then provoke an intellectual stimulation which encouraged them to present their ideas and concepts in an effectual manner. Creativity and organization in written work were emphasized by the department in an effort to prepare students for college years. Through these efforts, all were able to explore and analyze our language.

Skills in the Lab And Shop for Vocations

Today our world is more specialized than it has ever been before. To meet the demands of our changing world, we need to have knowledge of many things — homemaking, shop, and driving.

For every girl, the knowledge of sewing, cooking, child care, and general home management was something she could apply to her life later. Capably leading these important fields of homemaking were Miss Grace Benjamin and Mrs. Anne Ducker.

Wood and metal shops gave boys the chance to experiment with the various types of wood and metal besides learning how to operate the many machines. Teaching these skills was Mr. John Danubio.

Mr. James Hassett was the drivers' education teacher. Not only did he instruct in the handling of a car but he stressed the vital importance of safety.

Mrs. Charlotte Luz ran the library with skillful efficiency. The smoothness with which she handled her tasks added to its helpfulness and enjoyment.

A Place To Find And Develop Individual Interests

The East High Music Department had much spirit this year. It allowed many students to develop and display their talent. Mr. LeRoy Spitzer successfully directed the drill team and the vocal groups, while the noted instrumental sections were under the supervision of Mr. Richard Norton.

Returning to instruct art this year was Miss Grace Wagner. Under her leadership many students found a refreshing change from academic classes. Preparing students for a business world was the job of Mr. Royer, Mr. Menaugh, and Mr. Vehrs. Their aid and encouragement helped many students.

Fun, Hard Work Both Part of P.E. Classes

Physical fitness and skill were two objectives of the Physical Education Department this year. The attainment of these goals was aided greatly by new equipment and facilities. A larger gymnasium, a new locker room, and a new auxiliary gymnasium were added during the past summer. These extensions were welcomed by students and teachers alike.

The freshmen and sophomores were instructed by Mrs. Simcic, Miss Eilers, Mr. Eathorne, and Mr. McClary. Much of the boys' time was spent in rigorous calisthenics, which again exhibited the importance of physical fitness. Meanwhile, on the girls' side of the gym, skills for bowling, tennis, archery, and other sports were emphasized. Stress was placed on sports that the girls would participate in other than in their physical education classes.

Special Education Plays an Important Role

Mr. Roy Williamson

The Special Education class, taught by Mr. Roy Williamson, Mrs. Elaine Meyers, Mrs. Christine Petig, Mr. Donald Tompkins, Mrs. Jean Green, and assisted by Mrs. Eileen Edman, was planned to give the slow learner a place in high school. This class, which played a very important part in the educational curriculum at East, taught home skills to the girls and shop training to the boys as well as other basic courses. These students also had their own physical education classes in which they learned gymnastics, volleyball, and basketball. The teachers taught the class with a sense of responsibility, a deep and abiding dedication to their work, and a strong interest in the students and the progress they make.

The Jobs Behind the Scenes

Mrs. Irene Belt, Office Secretary

The jobs that went on behind the scenes all day and after everyone had gone home at night were occupied by a group of people whose never-ending patience, smiles, and pride in a job well done helped preserve the true spirit of East High. Every student saw them doing favors daily, out of their own kindness rather than someone's order. Dealing with minor or major emergencies was something they took in stride and dealt with calmly. Their friendliness and helpfulness throughout the year was much appreciated by all the Knights.

President Roger Magneson, above, led his class during its most difficult year, the one culminating in graduation.

Class of 1968 Prepares to Leave East

September was here again and Seniors at last reigned supreme. After three years of humility the honor, excitement and responsibility of that final year was theirs.

Homecoming week, traditionally regulated by the senior class, was as big a success as ever. It began with a beautiful coronation and was climaxed by a breath-taking football game which ended in a 13-13 tie.

Along with the Christmas season December brought loss of sleep and days of anxiety to the many seniors required to take college board tests. Everyone lived through it, though; and with the arrival of January, school was in full swing again bringing semester finals for the last time.

"Sunrise, Sunset" was the theme for the last Sweetheart Swirl attended by the class of '68, and it expressed their years of schooling well. They were approaching their "sunset" and the days slipped by quickly.

The end of basketball and wrestling brought the beginning of baseball and track. Our teams were proud to be from East High and we were proud of their performance.

We were given a taste of the adult world when our Senior Ball was held at the Bremerton Elks Temple instead of our own school cafeteria.

A beautiful Senior Tea marked the beginning of the end and all too soon it was Sunday evening and Baccalaureate. The solemn service was the prelude to graduation. We walked down the aisle scared and empty-handed, and returned proudly with a diploma and the knowledge that the class of 1968 was now ready to step out into the world and face its future.

"69"

In spite of a busy junior schedule involving hard subjects and pre-college tests, Ron Ball found time to direct the Junior Class as president.

ABOVE: Secretary Helen Boyer and Bonnie Hinsz as treasurer served their class by keeping records of meetings and expenses. BELOW: Vice-President Ben Manchion assisted in class projects such as the Junior Prom.

Juniors Achieve Upperclassman Title

Busy was the word for juniors. It started with college tests, the arrival of class rings, and the ASB card contest in which the class of '69 placed third. Ambition and initiative keyed the beginning of an intensive year of athletics, student affairs, and academics offered to all.

President Ron Ball, Vice-President Ben Manchion, Secretary Helen Boyer, and Treasurer Bonnie Hinsz, prompted admiration for the whole class by demonstrating outstanding qualities of leadership and encouraging their class to promote school spirit and pep throughout the entire year.

The class treasury was given a solid boost from the results of several profitable projects. Among the many activities in which the junior class participated were the food drive and toy drive, in which two second place honors were secured, a carnival booth, graduation, and the Senior Tea. A homecoming float was built for the climax of Homecoming Week. Several juniors also worked strenuously on the Junior Prom, with the theme "Venetian Dreams." Long hours and hard-working students made these money-raising efforts successful.

Active juniors were among the members of many organizations. Don Cosner and Greg Steinkraus participated as members of Pep Band.

Grimacing, Cathy Boden demonstrates the art of mural painting, to which she contributed her talent for the Junior Prom.

Leading the sophomores were President Bob Machinski, above, and Vice-President Jack Westerman, below, who helped maintain the fine reputation their class has earned in its years at East.

Secretary Marsha Kephart and Treasurer Carolyn Colvin found cooperation in their hours of working together a necessity.

Sophomore Marc Soriano took an active part in House of Representatives meetings to keep his class involved in student government.

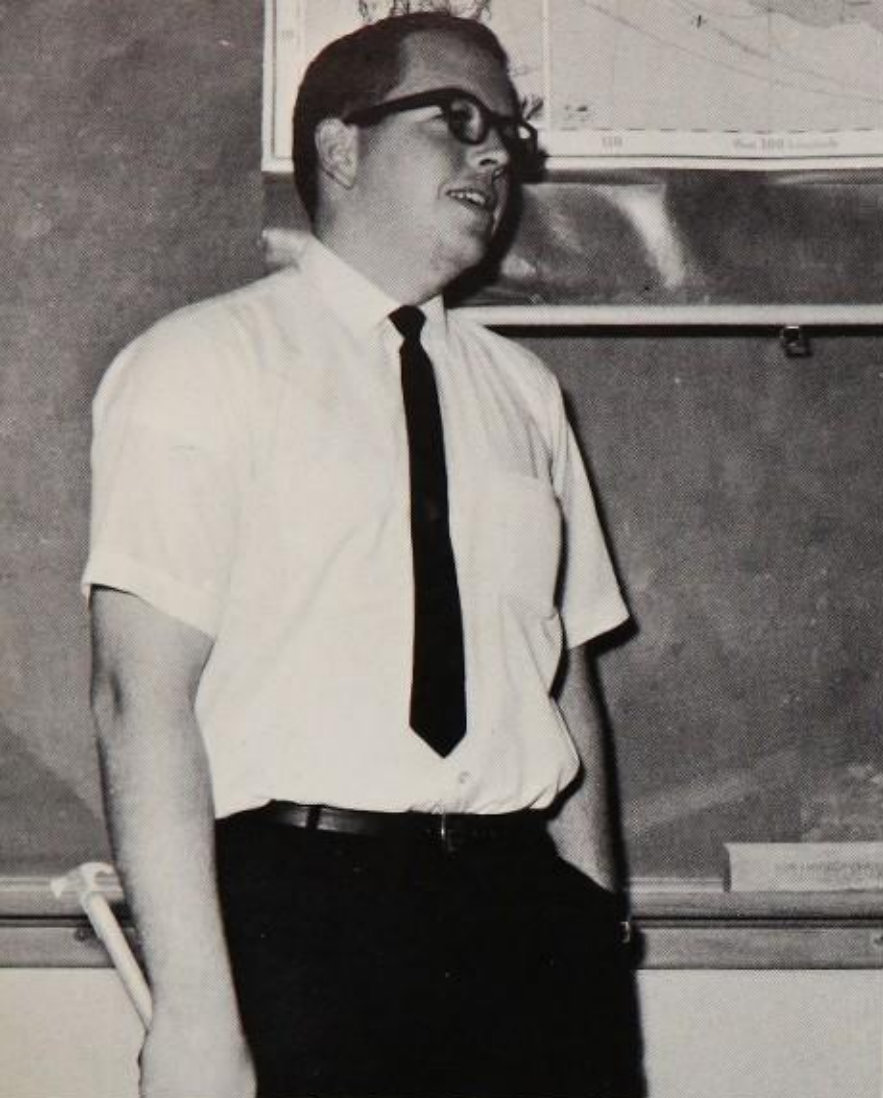

Sophomore Class Strives for Recognition

Returning for their second year of action at East, the sophomores joined wholeheartedly in the activities open to them. They showed that their spirit of fun and accomplishment was as strong as ever in their efforts to win yell competitions and to make money for their class. They sponsored the dance honoring the freshman in February and in June began looking forward to their junior year.

Tying for first place with the freshman float was the sophomore Homecoming float, below, bearing the message "Ban the Cougars."

As advisor to the sophomore class Mr. DeLange, above, instigated the active participation in school activities shown by the class of '70

In the spring of 1967 the class of '71 elected Bob Johnson, above, to be class president for their first year at East and Jim Trostad, below, to be vice-president. The experience they gained in student government while in office had great value to them and to their class.

On Freshmen Day Tom Kendall faithfully wore an onion around his neck and took the ridicule from seniors in good spirit.

As treasurer for the Frosh Judy Williams, left, kept an accurate account of all money. Vicky Woollett, right, kept complete records on the doings of her class in her post as secretary.

Beginners Conform to High School Demands

As lowly freshmen the class of '71 entered East in the fall to encounter the mysteries of high school. Under the leadership of their officers, this class played an effective part in student government and school activities. This was only one phase of freshman life in which these underclassmen participated. "A totally new experience" was the way the frosh summed up their first year at East.

Executive Council Aids Efficient Government

Along with the ASB officers, the Executive Council helped in the running of an efficient student government. The Executive Council consists of the ASB officers, class and major club presidents, and Knightimes and Shield editors. Believing that results are obtained with purposeful action, the Executive Council, a determined central government, made this a year of results.

The Executive Council along with the House of Representatives formed a bicameral school government. Fashioned after the United States government, this provided the school with a system of checks and balances. The Executive Council was the equivalent of the Senate. It met every other week and on the weeks it did not meet, the House met to vote on the Council's action.

Members of the Executive Council: FRONT ROW: B. Johnson, S. Jacobsen, D. McCallum, J. Singer, R. Ball, J. Steinkraus, A. Oakley, K. Miles, C. Berry, G. Gibson. TOP ROW: R. Raymond, M. Sokolows-ky, R. Magneson, A. Henderson, T. Marks, R. Grams, E. Peabody, B. Machinski, M. Bright.

Student Government Strives For Strong Leadership

As ASB Vice-President, Riki Raymond accepted his duties and through a strong sense of responsibility, carried them out for the betterment of East and its students.

Master of ceremonies at most of the school assemblies and major correspondent for advertisements sent to East were two of the many jobs for which ASB President Joel Singer was responsible.

ASB officers, the nucleus of student government, instituted a chain of innovations and reforms at East. Led by President Joel Singer, the ASB officers pooled their ability to make this year's Executive Council a decisive body. Heavy responsibilities of governing a school have made strong leadership essential. Along with President Joel, other ASB officers who led the student body through a successful year were Vice-President Riki Raymond, Secretary Dawn McCallum, Treasurer Kathy Miles, and Speaker of the House Jerry Steinkraus.

The ASB President had the responsibility of presiding over the Executive Council and running an efficient student body government. As head of the Assemblies Committee and Traffic Court, the ASB Vice-President shared in the duties of an ASB officer. The ASB Secretary kept minutes of the House of Representatives, Executive Council and Traffic Court meetings. The duties of the ASB Treasurer were keeping records of ASB card sales. Through these vital duties, these student officers formed a leadership for the student body of East.

FRONT ROW: C. Jones, N. Price, P. Jensen, K. Miles, C. Hereth, M. Weiss, J. Huber, S. Jacobson, G. Gibson. ROW TWO: H. Boyer, J. Williams, J. Waldram, E. Johnson, G. Colvin, D. McCallum, D. Knott, B. Hinsz, A. Stanley, M. Bright. ROW THREE: T. Lindstrom, D. Marks, J. Black, K. Eddy, M. Berry, R. Raymond, T. Marks, J. Steinkraus, R. Ranger, K. Coulter, J. Singer. ROW FOUR: B. Sokolowsky, B. Machinski, J. Coombe, B. Manchion, T. Showman, M. Sokolowsky, M. Soriano, R. Magneson, P. Deitz, J. Redenbaugh, R. Ball.

Representatives Express Student Body's Desires

Serving as one of the main governing bodies at East High School, the House of Representatives functioned to inform the student body of changes in the school policy and also strived to voice the opinions of the students. Several students from each grade were elected at the start of the school year to take part in this organization.

Under Mr. Scheyer's supervision, the members met twice each month to discuss problems and propose new ideas. Led by the Speaker, Jerry Steinkraus, the House of Representatives sponsored the school carnival as well as other activities, and nominated candidates to fill the positions of the Royal Order of Knights and Ladies.

Student Court Convenes for Student Judgement

Dawn McCallum, Don Etten, Doug Gore, Rick Grams, Alan Martin, Andy Oakley, John Redenbaugh, Riki Raymond, Cindy Berry.

One of the more serious aspects of school government undertaken by the students of East High was Traffic Court. Any student accused of a traffic violation had a choice of going before a Municipal Court or the East High School Traffic Court. If he chose East's Traffic Court he was tried before fellow students chosen to serve as jurors. The case then heard, a verdict was reached.

If found innocent the student's case was dismissed. If the jury found the student guilty, it imposed an appropriate penalty, such as suspending his drivers' license. Traffic Court helped the students that were involved to become more aware of the world outside of high school and how it is governed. Traffic Court proved to be an invaluable part of their education.

Student-Faculty Relations Improved Through Board

New to East this year was the Student-Faculty Board, which consisted of eight teachers — four class advisors and four volunteers — and eight students selected by the Executive Council. An important duty of this board was to discuss problems pertinent to students and faculty, thereby suggesting guidelines from which to make school policies. Some areas discussed by the board were proper school dress and the length of hair boys should be permitted to wear. The results were helpful, and the committee proved very effective in promoting better school understanding.

Funds from the East High Girls' Club and Boys' Club enabled Marcia Weiss and Joel Singer to attend Waskowitz Conference.

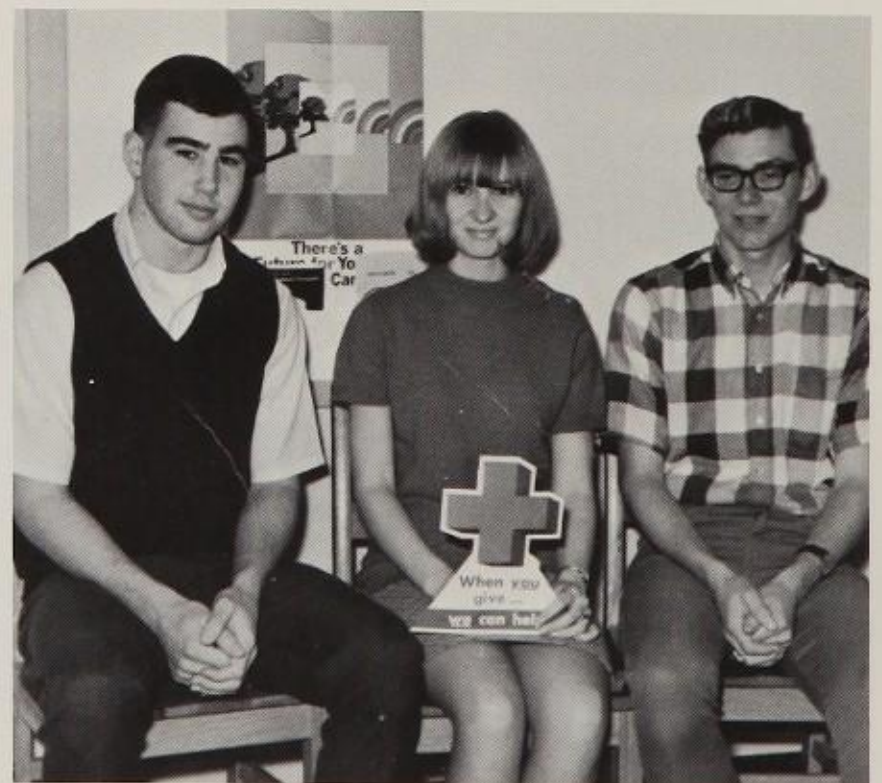

Kathy Miles and Randy Grams gained valuable experience in government affairs at Washington State Principals' Association-sponsored Seabeck Leadership Conference.

Leadership Conferences Prove Stimulating

To the twenty-eight students who were selected to attend various leadership conferences, forums, and seminars, the opportunity was a once-in-a-lifetime experience. Whether he spent a week at Seabeck Leadership Conference, two months at a science forum, or a summer abroad, each representative returned home bursting with countless ideas. No matter what the symposium stressed — government, liberal arts or the sciences — each delegate felt that his was a worthwhile experience.

Virgene Blatt, Cindy Berry, Mel Sokolowsky, Dave Knott, and Riki Raymond, as delegates to Girls' and Boys' State, American Legion-sponsored conferences, studied forms of politics.

Jim Kephart, Ann Stanley, and John Redenbaugh, representatives to the Red Cross Leadership Training Center, learned new methods in school government and group organization.

"Diplomats" Marsha Bright and Allan Henderson spent their summer vacations representing East High in Turkey and at the U.N.

Helen Boyer and Ellen Peabody studied various facets of science under the direction of the N.S.F. and the U.S. Army.

Doug Gore and Riki Raymond analyzed student traffic problems at the Traffic Conference sponsored by the W.S.P.A.

Allan Henderson, Linda Hammargren and Ellen Peabody were given the chance to gain knowledge of liberal arts and annual editing.

All-state band delegates were (left) SEATED, Dave Ladd, Doug Gore; STANDING, Carol Duffy and Linda Hammargren. All-state chorus delegates were (center) SEATED, Arlene Anderson; STANDING, Chris Toepel, Jerry Nysetvold, Ken Coulter. All-state orchestra delegates were (right) SEATED, Dave Knott, Lorraine Fry; STANDING, Chris Minnerly, Becky Wischoefer; not shown, Bill Farley.

National Honor Society Possesses Leadership

ABOVE LEFT, President Jim Kephart; ABOVE RIGHT, Vice-President Dave Knott. BELOW LEFT, Secretary Linda Hammargren; BELOW RIGHT, Treasurer Cathy Jones.

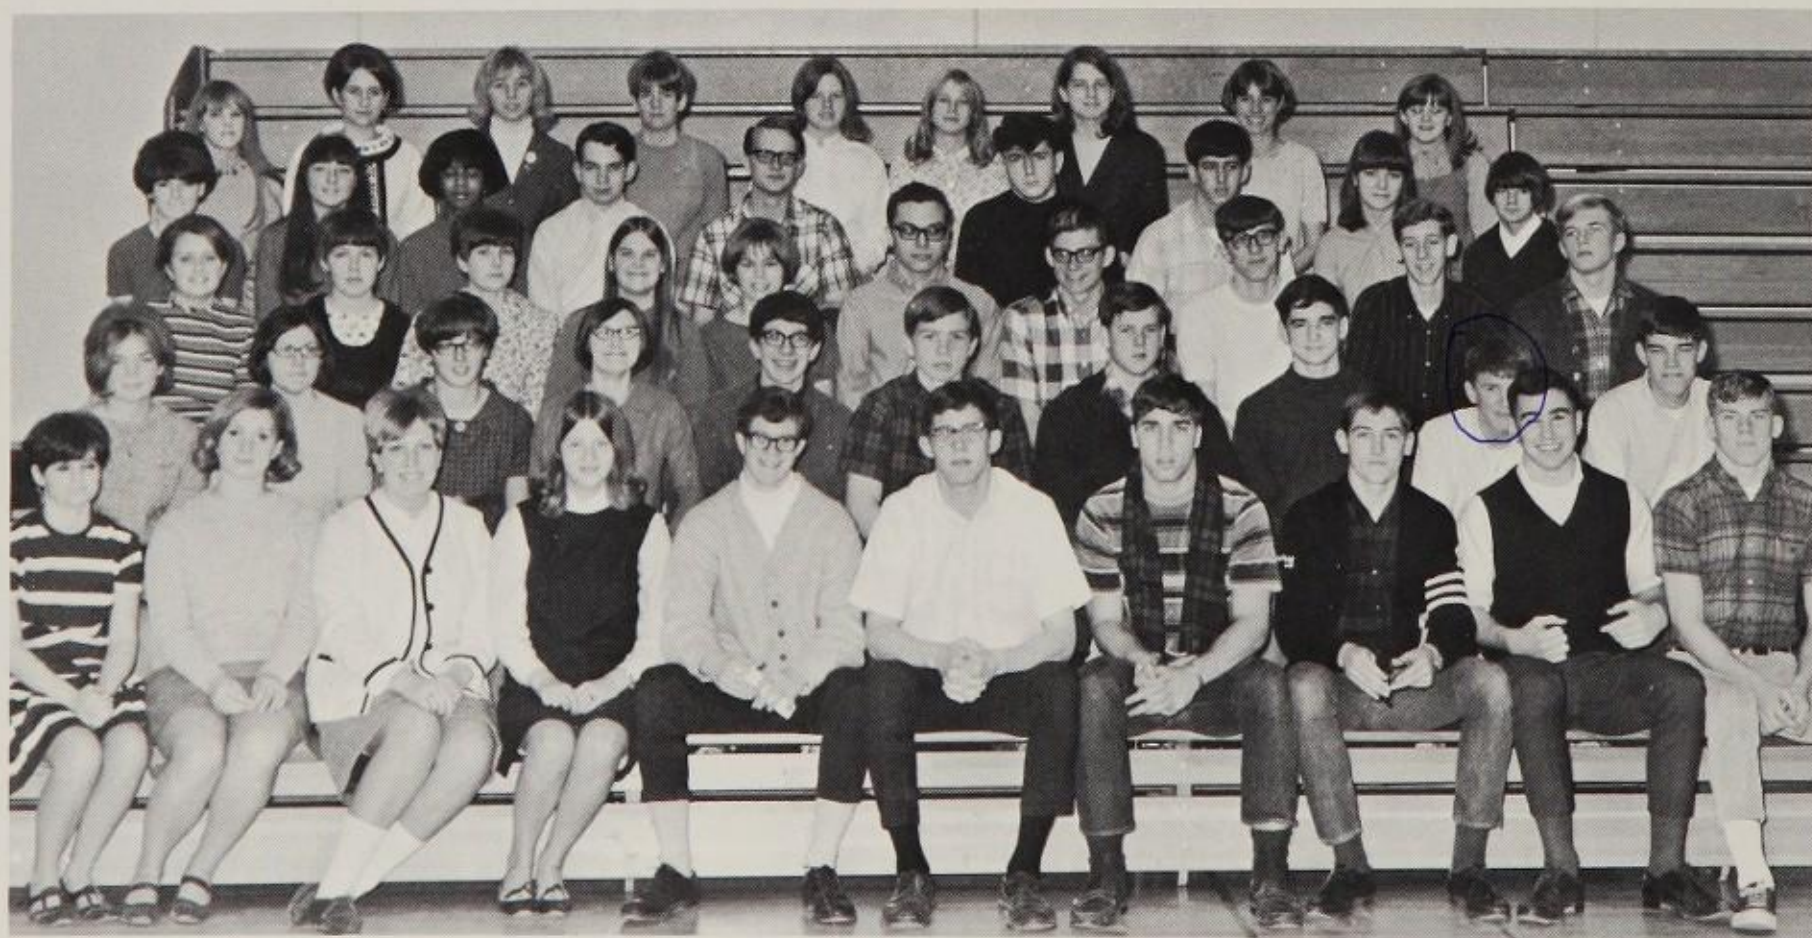

The National Honor Society was a symbol of distinctive academic achievement. All members had to maintain a 3.2 grade point average beginning with their freshman year, as well as possess high character and leadership qualities. Under the leadership of President Jim Kephart and Advisor Mr. Holum, the society continued to promote scholarship, citizenship, and school service at East.

Studying wasn't everything to an honor student like Bruce Yoder.

Top Scholars Are Named

At the end of the seventh semester every senior's cumulative grade point average was calculated. If it was a 3.5 or better, the title "honor student" was awarded. These exceptional students had exhibited excellence in their studies every year. They were the outstanding scholars of the class of '68 through their years at East.

The three National Merit finalists at East were Terry Johnson, Allan Henderson, and Dave Harrell.

Knowledge Is Important for Understanding

Although only two names were sent to New York, interest in AFS was enough to produce applicants Marcia Weiss, Lorraine Fry, Louise Dill, Ruth Ross, Jim Kephart, Ron Ball, John Redenbaugh, and Bill Farley.

Talking with Rob, this year's AFS student, was part of the after-school meetings.

Today's search for international understanding is exemplified by the AFS motto: "Walk together, talk together, all ye peoples of the earth." The purpose of the American Field Service was to provide the opportunity for a cultural exchange between students of different countries. Members of AFS have helped students all around the world to develop respect for other countries and understanding of other peoples.

Most of the money which AFS received came from donations. However, the year of 1968 proved to be one of progress in which several money-making projects were undertaken. One such successful plan was a penny drive sponsored by AFS. A sale of shares in AFS stock was also tried to encourage more people to take an interest in AFS. The money earned was spent to continue the exchange of students between different countries.

Luxembourg, USA

Thinking and perceiving became an important part in Rob's new life since new ideas were becoming a part of him.

Rob found many subjects at East which interested him. One of these was his journalism class.

The focal point of foreign interest this year came from Luxembourg in the form of Rob Kratzberg. Rob lived with the Marks family and from the first day of school, his name was spoken constantly. Since his schools were run in a different way, Rob found many things which interested him — student government, student-faculty relations, and the school newspaper. Rob was readily accepted into the student life of East High. Because of this acceptance, many of his customs became part of other students' lives as well. When Rob took out his harmonica and gave a performance, the tune would stick in our minds, just as Rob always will.

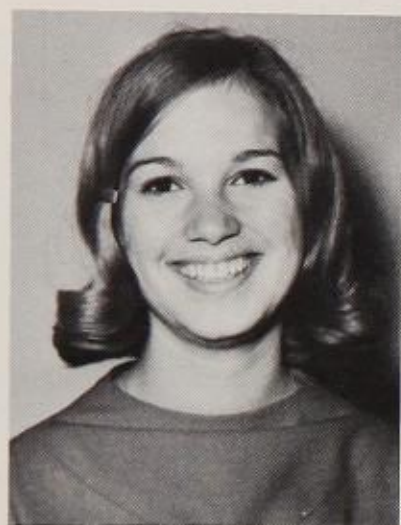

Although East had adopted Rob, there must have been times when he thought of home and his life there.

ABOVE: Rob was usually seen around the school with his American "brother" Tom Marks. BELOW: However, Rob's schedule did allow some time for relaxing.

Continuing in tradition, the East High Girls' Club was exceptionally active this year. Under the capable leadership of President Marsha Bright and the other officers, the Girls' Club sponsored many activities. Starting with little money, Girls' Club first undertook a very profitable bottle drive. Selling popcorn after school and at basketball games gradually increased funds.

Financial worries, however, did not occupy all of the cabinet's time. A reception to welcome East's foreign exchange student, Rob Kratzenberg, was held, and the Christmas Ball was another important event. Each month a "Girl of the Month" was elected by the feminine part of the student body. Assemblies were another facet of Girls' Club activities. Behind the accomplishments of Girls' Club was a hard-working advisor, Mrs. Sorenson, who spent much of her time at after-school cabinet meetings offering suggestions and help. Due to hard work on the part of many people, Girls' Club was rewarded with success.

Boys' Club Leads an Active Year

Jay Thatcher and Andy Oakley considered a date for making money after school for the club.

Because Boys' Club was one of the largest and strongest clubs at East, enthusiasm often reached great heights. Special requirements were not necessary for membership in this organization, as all the boys in school were automatic members. The central purpose of Boys' Club was to stimulate active interest from all boys. A few all-boy assemblies and several money-raising activities provided incentives for participation in projects. Specifically, the Boys' Club managed sno-cone sales after school, booster button sales, a freshmen girl slave auction, the decorating of the Christmas tree, and the maintaining of a booth at the ASB Carnival. Under the capable leadership of President Randy Grams and Vice-President Jay Thatcher, the club enjoyed a satisfying year.

Die Deutschen Ritter

The largest and liveliest language club, under Mrs. Carlson's supervision, encountered a zealous year. The German Knights participated in the Homecoming Parade besides making two trips to Tacoma's Bavarian Restaurant for authentic German food. In December they caroled at the local hospital and returned to the school for their Christmas party. Joining in with the other language clubs to produce Travel Knight in the first week of March completed a most active year.

German Club members Dave Henderson, Paul Beagley, and Bob Miles rehearse German carols with the rest of the club.

French Club provided its members with an opportunity to plan a successful year. October arrived, accompanied by the Homecoming festivities. Volunteers contributed their imaginations and talents toward preparing the traditional French Club float. Although the float did not reap the rewards, its originators displayed a worthwhile satisfaction. Other events followed, including the long-awaited arrival of the French Club pins. Serving as symbols of the club, the pins were worn with pride.

Club members discussed plans for money-making projects at the various meetings which were held after school during the year.

The Spanish Club, advised by Miss Peggy Stemmons, had an active year. With a popcorn sale held after school, the club boosted its financial standing considerably. The money was used to purchase membership cards and cover the expenses for a Christmas party held in December. Spanish Club members also engaged in purchasing pins symbolizing their names, "Los Conquistadores." These activities proved to be profitable as well as fun. Ventura al los Conquistadores.

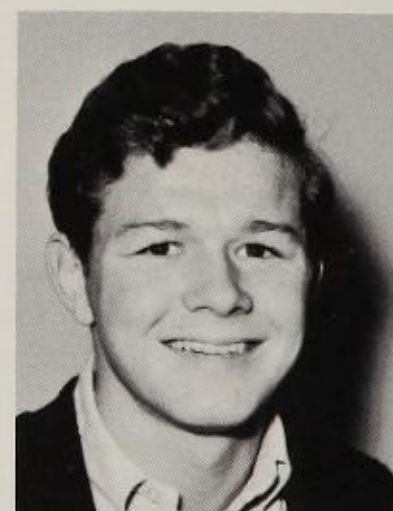

Spanish Club member, Roxie Woods, takes part in the popcorn sale which they sponsored after school. Mr. Eathorne lends his approval of the popcorn.

Latin Club Keeps Busy

To be in Latin Club meant to be busy. Late in October, the club was represented at the State Latin Convention, which was held in Seattle at Blanchet High School. Also held during the year were the sale of "hippy flowers," an initiation party, and a Roman Banquet. The Roman Banquet was an annual event at which the club members brought dishes for a pot-luck and dressed in Roman style clothes. They presented, as a gift to East High School, a wooden plaque in the shape of a knight.

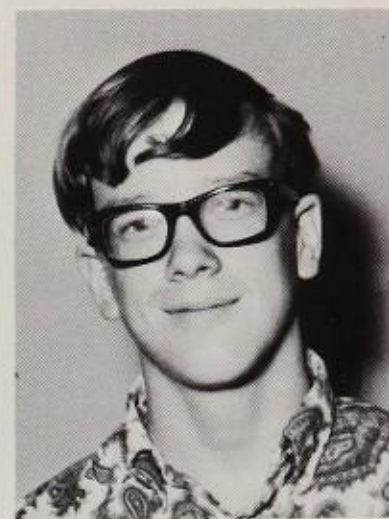

Mrs. Justin, the advisor for the Latin Club, showed her classes slides of Rome and different parts of Italy, in order to show how the Romans lived. The club officers and their advisor helped the club to enjoy their events during the year.

An Active Year for the Distributive Education Class

The "Revendedors," as the Distributive Education Club was called, was designed to contribute civic consciousness, vocational competency, social intelligence and leadership to the over-all Distributive Education program. This was encouraged by student participation in field trips, panels and special reports. This year's students participated in a Seattle field trip to compare the marketing techniques of Frederick & Nelson's and the Bon Marche. Their Fanny Farmer candy sale was very successful and they attended the State Leadership Conference. For those interested in selling, advertising, display or business in general, the opportunities of Distributive Education should be given careful consideration.

Students Prepare for Future Teaching Jobs

The career of teaching can be very rewarding, as the members of the Future Teachers of America learned. Under a new advisor, Mr. Daniel Mutch, the FTA held several money-raising campaigns and met with West's FTA. In the spring, the senior members of the club participated in the cadet teaching of elementary students. They donated their time toward helping these young students, and they themselves received guidance from teachers. There was a feeling of satisfaction and accomplishment from the students' work. The aim of the club was to obtain a fundamental background in preparation for a teaching career.

An Insight Into the Medical World

While keeping up-to-date on nursing, the Future Nurses of America experienced a profitable year. To acquire proper background for nursing, guest speakers spoke to the members of FNA. Visits to hospitals helped expand their knowledge of medicine and nursing procedures. Summing up, FNA provided an insight into the world of medicine.

GAA Coordinates Fitness And Skill With Fun

To provide a chance for girls to participate in sports is what the Girls' Athletic Association accomplished this year. Many girls turned out for archery, badminton, volleyball, and other activities to promote sportsmanship while having fun and making new friends. For each turnout, a member received a number of points. After accumulating enough points, she earned her letter and became part of the "E" Club. In February, together with West's GAA and "W" Club, they sponsored the Sweetheart Swirl.

Special Education — A Year of Rewarding Projects

Crafts and woodworking were just two of the activities engaged in by the 76-member Special Education class. Many class hours were spent creating saleable projects, and much after-class time was used displaying and selling their creations. These experiences helped prepare the students for jobs.

Officers Ron Wilson, Carol Bender, Gerald Modest, Debby Jensen, and Gary Veth encouraged their class through leadership.

Elizabeth Conklin uses the skill she learned to embroider. This is only one of the crafts done in Special Education.

Acting as the "paddle squad" at the football games and as assembly squad at all school assemblies were the jobs for which the Letterman's Club was best known. However, there were other activities which occupied its time. Under the supervision of Les Eathorne and Ted Berney, the club successfully sponsored the Alumni Game and the Varsity Review. Another of its varied duties was to keep the announcement board up-to-date. All this kept the club busy, but it still managed to take excursions to various places. One such excursion was to see a professional basketball game. In order to get into this organization, a prospective member had to be a varsity letter winner. If accepted, he was initiated into a club which not only provided service for East but varied activities for its members. This initiation included a dinner held in February in honor of the new members.

One of the many services that the Letterman's Club did for the school was to act as an assembly squad at all the school assemblies.

Advisor Mrs. Merrifield and editor-in-chief Allan Henderson checked a layout before publication of Knightimes.

Knightimes Returns to a Regular Schedule

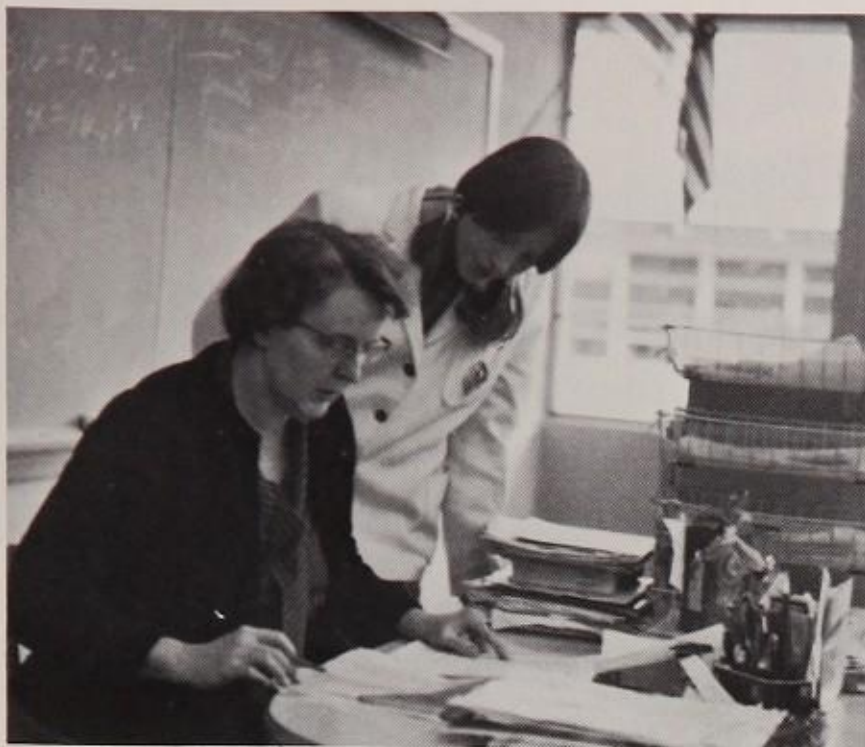

With the start of the school year, the journalism class commenced a busy schedule. Their first duty was to organize into an efficient group in order to produce the school newspaper, the Knightimes. Since its publication had been discontinued for a year, the staff faced many unforeseen problems. But with the direction of a new advisor, Mrs. Merrifield, the staff proceeded to collect material necessary for publication. Page editors were busy fitting copy into columns; typists made their machines sing — a newspaper was in the making. Then after much work and patience the first Knightimes since 1966 was produced. However, their efforts did not cease after the first edition, for the group continued to work diligently throughout the remaining year. As the year progressed the Knightimes came out on a regular schedule with many new articles and features. The paper was of great interest to all students.

Checking copy written for the Shield were advisor Mrs. Boyer and editor-in-chief Ellen Peabody. They were both new at the job but efficiently led the class to produce the annual.

Members of the Shield staff take a moment off to have their picture taken. The members were Dave Boyce, Jan Bastron, Terry Showman, Georgia Dronen, and Jolene Horch.

Shield Staff Learns to Produce An Annual

This year's annual staff was faced with the problem of inexperience. Nearly all of the staff members had never worked on an annual before, but they were quick to learn as much as possible about the production of a yearbook. When school commenced in the fall, the annual staff set out to accomplish a great responsibility: the production and payment of the whole East High Shield. As the year proceeded the group worked long hours on the annual in order to produce one worthy of the traditions set in the past by East, and to earn the big "E" award from the publishing company.

Busy with their daily work were, above, Pete Byrne, Kathy Deitz, and Maureen Westerman; and, right, photographer Mary Cornish.

Shield staff members Nancy Fox, Sandi Carroll, Yvonne Sollie, Susie Sewright, and Gwen Colvin gathered to have their own yearbook picture taken.

Working together in harmony was necessary, as Barbara Sutherland, Linda Hammargren, Pat Ford, Jeanne Yenke, and Pat Firestone learned while working on the yearbook.

Alan Martin proved to be a valuable member of Debate.

Phil Osborne and Dave Harrell used the library in locating research material.

Allan Henderson and Riki Raymond won second place at the St. Martin's Invitational Tournament.

Debate Merits Esteem

The Debate Team of East High School maintained its reputation as a worthwhile and prized organization. Sixteen students constituted the debate program, whose standards required their registration in a second year speech class. To foster the interests of debate, oratory, impromptu, and oral interpretation were the objectives of the organization. Debators participated in teams and individual meets. Highlights of the year included tournaments held at several schools.

East High School opened its doors this year to a new organization bearing the title of Key Club. Its twenty-seven members awoke early on alternate Wednesday mornings to meet the demands of the 7:15 meetings. Members were chosen on approval of the present members and upon recommendation of Mr. Scheyer. Mr. Spitzer, the advisor, supervised the meetings and guided the club toward promoting service for the benefit of the school. Among Key Club's activities was the football cushion sale.

Key Club member Jerry Steinkraus found Tim Gulberg a prospective customer at the football cushion sale in October.

The orchestra started its '67-'68 activities when the school year had barely begun by performing at the Puyallup Fair early in September. With East's other musical groups it shared in the Christmas and Swing Concerts and the joint East-West Armed Forces Day Concert. The outstanding string section gave several concerts on its own. Two Olympic League Orchestra Festivals, at East and Port Townsend, were the year's highlights.

Full of eager anticipation, the members of the Knightlites, East's dance band, prepared for a busy year of rehearsals and performances. One of their activities was playing for formal dances at other schools. The only time they performed with East's other music groups was during the Swing Concert in which they were the featured group. The culmination of the year was attending the Stage Band Festival at Olympic College.

Outstanding freshman, sophomore, and junior singers auditioned to become members of a group which performed in and out of school. After careful judging certain singers were selected, and a new class was added to their schedules. They were then members of Knightones. After hard work, long hours, and careful supervision they were prepared for the long list of concerts ahead of them. Some were performed as part of the East High Music Department such as the Christmas Concert, the Swing Concert, and the joint East-West Armed Forces Day Concert. Others were performed to display the individual's as well as the group's talent such as the concert given in November which featured soloists, duets, and trios as well as the group. However, it was not only the singing but also the instruction that created Knightones. This was provided by Mr. LeRoy Spitzer.

To perform at small gatherings, Renee LaBeau, Kathy Miles, and Donna Matteson formed a Senior Trio. Mrs. A. Anderson listened.

"The Telephone Hour," a selection from "Bye-Bye Birdie," was performed by the girls and Ken Coulter at one of the concerts.

Mr. Spitzer directed vocal music classes four periods each day. A strong arm was necessary.

A Busy, Satisfying Year

As head of vocal music, Mr. Spitzer tried to instill in his students pride in the performance they were giving. But there were obstacles. Perfecting a concert or performance worthy of East High's reputation took desire and practice. But the thrill of a job well done was payment for the concentrated effort and long hours.

Large numbers of students participated in the East High Vocal Music Department. Besides Knightones, Choir, Chorus, and Girls' Glee were vocal groups. All freshmen girls who wished to sing automatically became members of Girls' Glee. They performed at the Christmas Concert, Swing Concert, and Armed Forces Day Concert. Open to all students, the Chorus was the largest group, numbering ninety-five. They also performed at school concerts. In Girls' Glee and Chorus, students were taught the basic fundamentals of performing in any musical group. Those wishing to be choir members auditioned before Mr. Spitzer. Choir performed at various places other than concerts and also entered contests in the spring.

Drill Team Strives for Perfection

During the half-time show of the Central-East football game, Captain Cynthia Cobler and a mud-caked East High drill team entertained to the tune of Henry Mancini's "Peter Gunn Theme."

Two-and-a-half hour rehearsals under a blistering sun. Seven o'clock practices in the chilly morning mist. Hours and hours of time spent synchronizing the tiniest details. Practice. Practice. Practice. A ten-minute performance often entailed as many as ten hours of rehearsal. East High's twenty-nine member drill team, whether selling candy after school to earn money for uniforms and excursions or crawling out of bed an hour early to attend rehearsal, was always devoted to giving its best.

As a result these girls, snapping into precision routines and flipping the skirts of their swishing, shining uniforms, earned many honors as they entertained parade and ball game spectators, greeted visiting dignitaries, and welcomed the men aboard arriving ships.

Pep, Squire Bands Promote Instrumental Music

Once again East High School's vigorous pep band, consisting of about one half the members of the Knights' Band, spiritedly played for animated pep assemblies. A new music group composed of freshman members, the Squire Band, bolstered our instrumental music sections. Replacing the former second band, this energetic group performed at Frosh sports and in school concerts.

For the fifth year, Mr. Norton instructed the instrumental music department and led it on to high ratings.

Two, three, kick! And the East High Marching Band commenced to march down the interminable road of half-time shows, parades, contests, concerts, and welcoming ceremonies. The road was not easy. Hours of individual practice as well as group efforts were essential to uphold the excellent reputation and high standards established in previous years. In June 1967, the band was honored with the title "Honor Band" and was chosen to lead the Portland Rose Festival. Marching miles in heat and woolen uniforms brought gratifying results as the band captured first place in the Class AA Division at the Seafair Parade last summer. The Torchlight Parade and a concert at the Puyallup Fair followed. With the coming of fall came the half-time shows, complete with evening trips to Memorial Field, early morning practices in the biting November air, frozen valves, numb hands, and mud-caked shoes. December introduced the annual Christmas Concert and candy sale, while spring was a kaleidoscope of concerts and parades, including the Armed Forces Parade and Concert, Contest, and the Shelton Forest Festival. Under the direction of Richard Norton, this 80-member precision unit served as a symbol of true "Knight Pride."

Songleaders and Cheerleaders Keep the Spirits High

Leading competition yells at pep assemblies, painting signs for the cafeteria, and taking refreshments to visiting cheerleaders at half time were only a few of the many activities and duties that the song and cheer leaders performed with a smile. Their main job, however, was inventing and perfecting their routines and cheers. The enthusiasm they put into their yells aroused East fans' greatest spirits at football and basketball games, and they created a greater interest in wrestling matches than ever before. Their radiant smiles gave away the pride that they felt all year for the East High Knights.

Frosh Pep Squad Demonstrates Good School Spirit

School spirit wasn't something that only the upper classes had, for the Squires had it also. Early in the year, five cheerleaders were elected by the freshman class. Next the Squires organized a Pep Club. From then on these two groups proceeded to cheer their team on to victory. However, they did other things. Saturdays usually found one or the other of these groups selling cotton candy, and weekdays found them painting signs after school.

An integral part of freshman school spirit was the cheerleaders. Filling these positions were, front, Beth Yesland and Bev Arena; back, Leighanne Peterson, Queen Carol Stanley, and Lory Gavin.

Science-Math Club Gains With Creation of Teams

Leadership for this fast-growing club was provided by (above left) President Bruce Yoder, (above right) Vice-president Tom Means (below left) Secretary Carol Dashed, and Treasurer Ted Smith.

This year Science and Math Club took its place as one of the more active clubs at East. The club's traditional activities included selling sno-cones and repairing televisions for selling. Under the guidance of their advisor, Mr. William Trezise, the club took on more projects. The first of these was the organization of demonstration teams. Teams were selected to perform experiments at various places. The purpose of these teams, as the club's, was to increase interest in the field of science.

One of the activities which brought this club school-wide attention was the frequent sno-cone sales held after pep assemblies.

Third Touchdown Assures

Victory

The season for the Knights was a commendable one. Team spirit was always high; they never lost a bit of pride. East finished the season with 5 wins, 3 losses and 1 tie.

The season started out bright for the Knights as they came out on top of O'Dea 7-0. Traveling to Tacoma they faced a strong Lincoln team and bowed out 6-0. The Knights went out the next week to beat a team which had been beaten only once before. The Black and White succeeded in conquering West 19-7, for the second time in history. The always-tough Port Angeles team followed. It was fought hard all the way, but P.A. came out in front 7-6. The Knights shone brightly the next two weeks with wins over North 44-6 and South 7-0. Central came to play the Knights, and play they did. It ended in a 13-13 tie. The last league game was a victorious one over Shelton, 46-21. In the Knight's final conquest they came against a very highly rated team, Mt. Tahoma. The score was 22-18, T-Birds winning.

One of the greatest assets was the fine coaching by Mr. Berney, Mr. Battermann, Mr. McClary, Mr. Stelson, and Mr. Danubio. The losses were all heartbreakers. The Knights finished second in the league, but they played like true champions.

Knights Earn Berth

The small but fiery Knight cagers proved to be admirable opponents for any team they met this year. Hindered by a lack of height, the speedy Knights made up for this natural deficit with challenging hearts and a fierce pride. The strong hearts and Knight pride were most evident in the contests with Central Kitsap, Port Angeles, Shelton, Federal Way and Mount Tahoma. Not recognized as a possible threat during preseason games, the unacknowledged Knight hoopsters came charging into the season and made themselves known. The Knight's hope for a pre-tournament spot was fulfilled when our Knights overwhelmed South Kitsap 64 to 42, in a play-off game. The coveted advancement to the finals was barred by the Port Angeles Roughriders who won a hard-fought game with East. The game ended with the larger Roughriders outscoring the Knights 88 to 82. For the Knights the season came to a sad end, but the overall effort, determined spirit of competition, and the overwhelming support by the student body left an image to be be coveted and followed by many students to come. All in all the season was considered a very successful one.

High Spirit Is the Essence of Victory

The East High Squires had a successful year, compiling a 7-1 record. They started off the season with close games, beating arch rival West 40-36. Next the Squires went to the South Kitsap gym to defeat a tough team, Marcus Whitman 49-47. The Central game was another close one with East squeaking by 35-33. The next three games were easily taken with the Squires beating Bainbridge 53-23, a non league game against Vashon with East coming out on top 48-25, and against North, winning 53-21. The most important game of the season was next, with the Squires losing to a tough team — West, 38-31. Getting back on the winning streak by beating Marcus Whitman again 41-37. East Squires then had four more games in the season.

Matmen Grapple for Olympic

The East High wrestlers defended their Olympic League title in one of the most successful seasons in the school's history. This program continued to gain in stature as the Knights remained unbeaten for the third straight year in league competition. This, plus the best outside competition that could be scheduled, has added to spectator interest. Twice this year, crowds of over one thousand gathered to see the Knights in action. They were not disappointed by the fast-moving, aggressive style of "the matmen."

The Junior Varsity was led to its second undefeated season by Jeff Coombe, Gary Moen, Keith Olson, Chuck

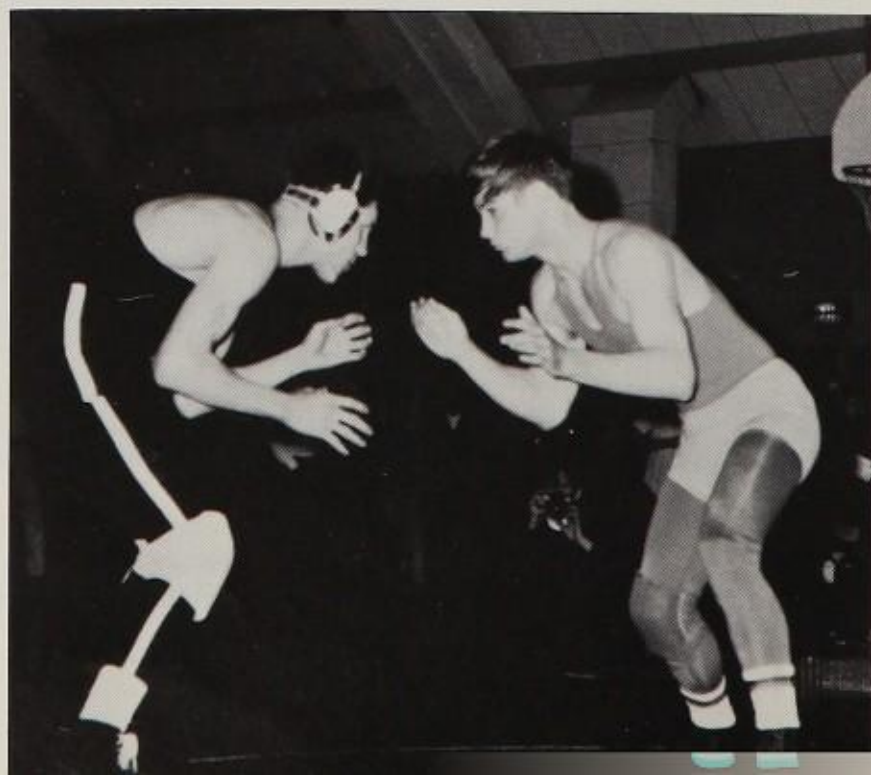

Gallagher, Ron Allen, Bob Henry, and Randy LeBeau.

East led all county schools by taking four first places in the Sub-District Tournament. Six Knights qualified for the District. Mark Branch and Mike Coonfield, juniors, were gaining valuable experience and lending strength to Hughes, Branch, Knott, and Crittenden. The State Tournament at Western Washington State College saw the powerful George Crittenden finish fourth in the state. Rod Branch and Mike Coonfield finished strongly in the quarter-finals. This strong showing in the state tournament climaxed a season of outstanding effort, victories, and personal pride for the Knights.

Lynn Hughes wasted no time gaining another victory.

Track — The Sport of Sights And Sounds

The sound of feet on a wet cinder track — a glimpse of a soaring javelin — a jumper shaking sawdust — all were sights and sounds of an East High track meet. A circus, where the spectator had but to turn to see another act.

The weeks and months of practice to obtain perfection — the long hours after school — parched throats — blistered feet — aching muscles — all were part of the athletic life.

The 1968 track season was full of feeling. No matter how tough the going, the determination and dedication never faltered. The influence of returning veteran cindermen was great, as was the capable guidance of coaches Vehrs and Berney. They provided the team with much-needed experience and leadership.

No sport is as diversified as track. There is literally something for everyone, whether participant or spectator. The track team must combine strength, agility, speed and endurance in order to bring success. It is this combination of individual skills that makes the track men a team.

Game Was Defense

Baseball, the game loved by millions, is also enjoyed here at East High. Although track, tennis, and golf make up a large portion of spring sports, baseball continues to be a favorite with fans and players alike.

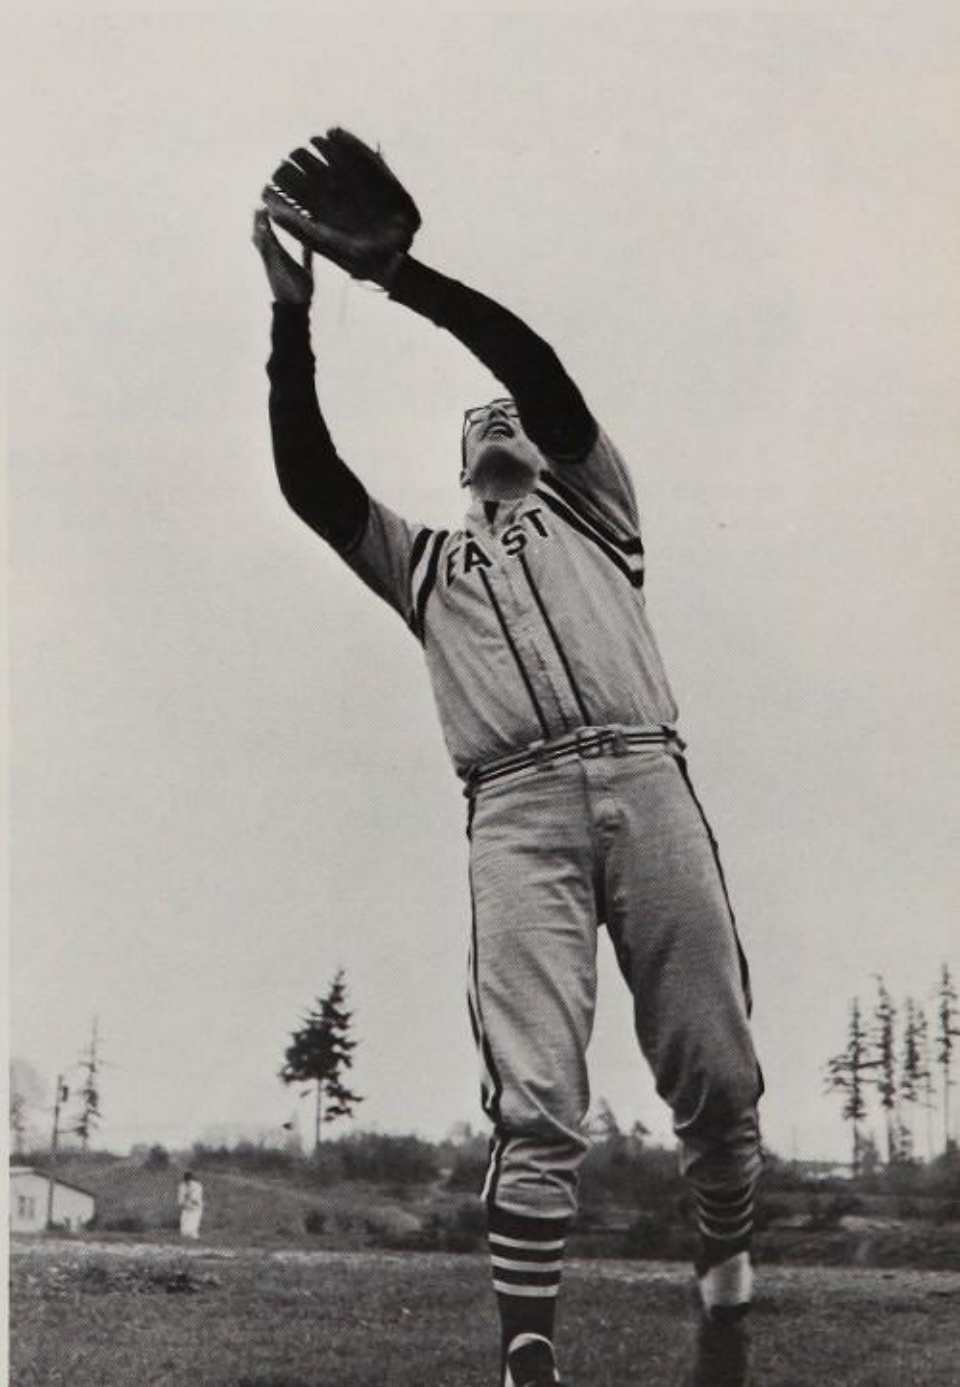

Coach McClary's teams have always been noted for their positive attitudes. With this attitude the Knights won a percentage of their games this year with only four returning seniors — Randy Grams, Rick Grams, Terry Showman, and Larry Gallagher. The nucleus of the team was juniors and sophomores. The outcome of the season rested with the players themselves. Their great desire to win was a deciding factor in the season. They did a fine job with even brighter prospects for the future.

Golf, Tennis Provide Variation

Tennis and golf, often regarded as "small" sports, received big attention this year. Playing in matches through spring season, East High's tennis teams perfected skill and style through constant practice. Tennis coach Mrs. Simcic instructed the girls' team while Mr. Danubio offered pointers to the boys' team. A few select boys were chosen to participate as members of the golf team. With Mr. Hassett's advice, they worked to achieve better performance in their skills.

BELOW: Queen Paulette Benke, after being crowned queen, listens happily while Knightones honor her with songs at coronation.

Princess Kathy Deitz introduces her family to the expectant audience.

Jerry Crowley escorts Princess Donna Matteson to the stage.

Princess Diane Nelson listens to the Knightlites.

Homecoming 1967 began with the traditional selection of the top ten girls from the senior class. From these ten, five princesses were chosen. At the coronation, held in a beautifully decorated gym, the princesses were presented with their escorts and as the evening progressed, Paulette Benke was crowned Homecoming Queen 1967. The week-long celebration continued with a victory bonfire and a car caravan which proceeded through town to Memorial Stadium. There, to climax the week, the East Knights battled to a tie against the Central Kitsap Cougars. The Homecoming Dance held the next evening concluded the week's activities, making the spectacular Homecoming events of 1967 memorable and worthy of the title "Knights to Remember."

and Doug Gore, Princess Marsha Bright and Mel Sokolowsky, Princess Donna Matteson and Jerry Crowley.

Students Seek . . .

The classroom was the conventional place of learning, here teachers taught and students studied, seeking for knowledge.

The largest part of a student's day at school was spent in classrooms. The quest there was for knowledge. Often it was an unresolved quest because the puzzle of facts, figures, theories, and ideas was at times confusing. Sometimes though, came a glimmer of light. In crystal clear moments the logic behind a theorem or the principle behind a lab experiment shone forth. In those moments the title of student really applied.

In addition to finding answers, school was enjoying friends. Sometimes it was being jostled by them in the halls on the way to class. Often it was loud conversation in the cafeteria about the game and dance of the weekend before. Sometimes it was discussing problems and plans with someone special. Other times it was not talking with people, but just being near them.

Intramurals, games, pep assemblies, proms; students participated in all these activities and many more. Activities, whether mental or physical, were deeply imbedded in school life. When a student really became interested in school there were many to choose from. School was a combination of learning, of friends, and of activities.

. . . Answers

Students, above, used cafeteria as a study hall. Below, the office received many questions during the day, many of which were answered by student secretaries.

New science classrooms and the importance of science in our advanced world stimulated interest in this subject.

The cafeteria was a center of school activity. Students made use of the jukebox, and sat at tables for study or talk.

... Activities

Freshman Band members exhibited their enthusiasm as they played for a Freshman home football game.

... Companionship

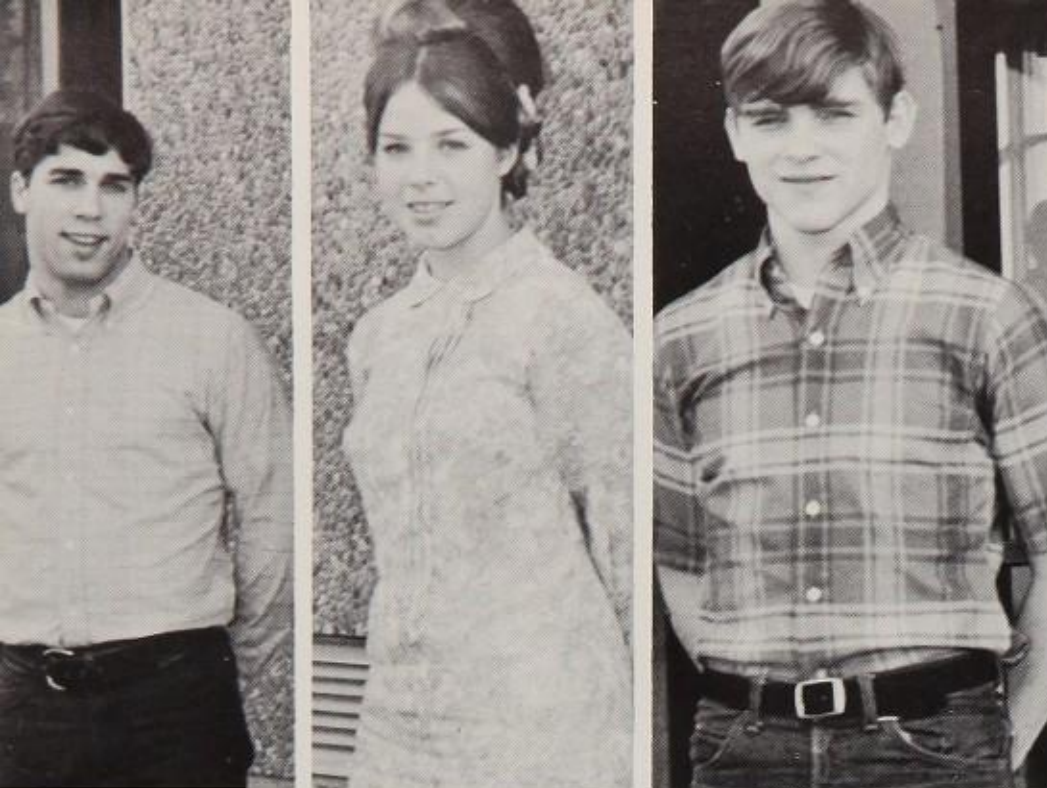

The halls seemed more crowded this year as 300 freshmen joined the ranks of East High students.

Many interests were reflected in students' faces, the importance of winning a basketball game and enjoyment of the Junior Prom.

Three East students captured major parts in the musical. They were, above, Mel Sokolowsky, Renee LaBeau, and Ken Coulter.

Occupying the important supporting roles were East High students Steve Royer, Carolyn Colvin, and Tim Gulberg.

The directors from East for Bye Bye Birdie were, above, student choreographer Jan Bastron, Mr. Norton, Mr. Spitzer, and student director Jolene Horch. They shouldered a big responsibility.

East-West Cast Staged

Hours of time-consuming practice. Thousands of words to be memorized. The work put into the musical to make it a success was tiring and seemed never-ending. As time passed the play took on a definite form and student actors and actresses got the feel of their character.

Opening night approached swiftly. Each member of the cast, orchestra, stage crew, and the directors gave it all they had. Tension grew as the curtain rose. In spite of this, the cast performed well. The orchestra was excellent; the directors were pleased and proud; the audience responded. The production of Bye Bye Birdie was a success.

Barbara Tomren, and BACK ROW, Dave Christiansen, Dave Ladd, Carol Duffy, Don Etten. Through the musical additions of the orchestra, Bye Bye Birdie became what it was meant to be, a musical.

The adult chorus from East consisted of FRONT ROW, Kathy Miles, Chris Carstens, Judy Vancil, and Arlene Anderson; BACK ROW, Joel Singer, Jim Tompkins, Dan Owens, and Jerry Crowley.

This year there were two choruses in the East-West musical. There was an adult chorus and a teen chorus. Besides singing, the choruses needed to project their parts as townspeople.

A Musical Success

CAST LIST

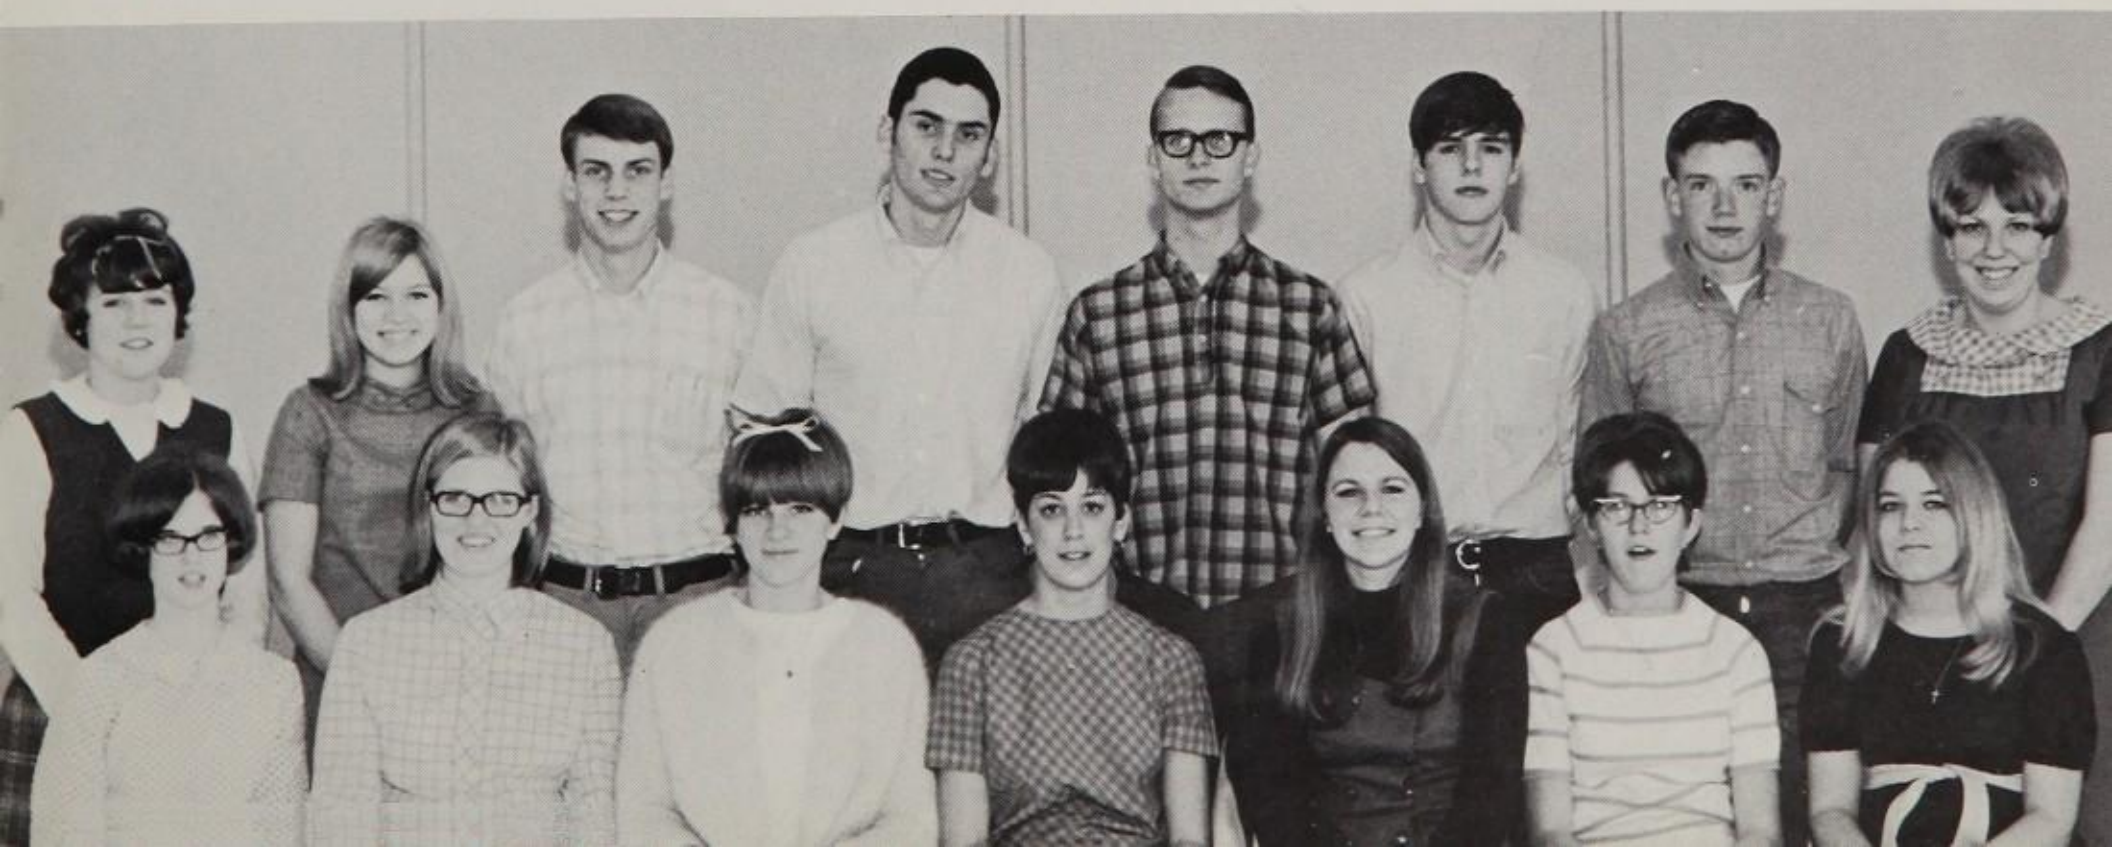

Rose Alvarez	Ronda Ghylin
Albert Peterson	Ken Coulter
Kim MacAfee	Alice Landry
Conrad Birdie	Mel Sokolowsky
Mae Peterson	Kaye Bramwell
Mrs. MacAfee	Renée LaBeau
Mr. MacAfee	Gary Banks
Ursula	Carolyn Colvin
Randolph MacAfee	Steve Royer
Hugo Peabody	Tracy Bergquist
Charles F. Maude	Tim Gulberg
Mayor	Rod Gleysteen

East dancers included Rod Branch, Virgene Blatt, Jan Bastron and Roger Magneson. Not pictured is Cynthia Cobler. Their part was one of the most sought after parts and one of the hardest parts in terms of physical exertion.

Magneson, Ken Parypa, Randy Spitzer, Dawn McCallum. This chorus played a large part in the production of the musical due to the large number of teenage parts.

Allee, Allee In Come free— free — free!

Our group had 34% fewer cavities.

Debbie -

Its really hard to write in someones annual — especially when you've been getting in trouble with them for almost the whole year! —

Debbie,

I kind of had fun in Biology, although I was outnumbered 3 to 1 at our table, but I didn't mind too much. I think you're a pretty sweet girl and I'm glad I got to know ya. Good luck with the rest of school, ya' just might need it!

Love ya,

Randy

you're really a cool girl!
See ya lots
this summer!!

Love ya,
~~Debbie~~

Debbie -
Well its really been great knowing ya and being in some of your classes this year. You're a really nice person and I'll gladly meet ya. Have fun this summer, and I hope I'll see ya

Love ya
Randy

Debbie,
Thank you being such a sweet person to me. I really think that you're a sweet person. I also like your shirt and I would like to have your shirt next. Well I'll see you next year, I hope I'm a great big person.

Love ya,
Randy

Debbie
Well its been fun having to be with you in the same class. I hope I see ya this summer.
ya old Hag. Have alot of fun and laughs this summer.

Debbie
 Have a fun summer and I hope you keep sticking up for Dean - maybe he'll win an argument sometime!
 Sherri

Debbie
 Well, I sure hope
 you have fun this summer. You should come riding around with Joyce and me so time. Be good this sum and I hope you see also Debby, of Dean's wife

Well, too bad for me. Vic
 I never made it around to you in time. I wish I had. Darn. Oh well, maybe someday. You and Dean had a good time.
 Carlin

Deb
 I can't honestly say because we haven't really known each other long enough. However, due to the circumstances, I feel that the formation of a confederacy of a more permanent nature is definitely within sight. (Whew!) Have you ever thought of having a party? Give it some serious thought I'm at a loss to say anything more, so I'll end this little note by saying the words of an ancient Bulgarian philosopher: "Have fun this summer and see ya' around." Dean

Deb -
 You are a really good girl. I know
 been nice getting to know you this year
 Meg

Deb
 I would probably have never gotten to know you if it hadn't been for that rat on the wheel side. I don't like you any more. I don't want you to break you up too much. I don't want you to get this summer. Don't get caught in much noise. Don't get caught
 See you next year
 Cathy

I hope you have a great summer and I hope you keep sticking up for Dean - maybe he'll win an
 argument sometime!
 Sherri
